72nd St Ramp closure – Informational meeting.

Margaret Forgione, Manhattan Borough Commissioners, DOT; Brenda Levin, consultant to Extell; Paul Selver, Kramer Levin, land use Attorney presented. Stated there was an obligation to the developer (Extell as current owner) from 1992. EIS was revisited in 2003. Extell will have a monthly newsletter and maintain an email contact list to keep people up to date.

Community liaison is Mike Byrne 212-721-3615 Email: mbyrne@dewberry.com Address: Resident Engineer Field Office, 120 Riverside Blvd., New York, NY 10069

M. Forgione stated: Pedestrian crossing times on WEA will be unchanged.

Other items and concerns stated by various parties:

Crosstown 79th St bus – blocks traffic

Phyllis Gunther – Why not wait until the Blvd goes to 59th St before making the connection.

Philip Habib – Riverside Blvd will take traffic now going on WEA going to the highway northbound.

66th St is a speedway – red lights are run

ADA – this is a violation of the Lincoln Towers agreement

Connection will take traffic from Riverside Drive destined for Lincoln Center.

RSD and RSB are both 45 feet wide.

Another lane on WEA will make pedestrian crossing less safe on WEA. DOT will review.

Madeline Polayes – How will fire engines get to 73rd and WEA?

Livery cabs line up on Riverside Boulevard – needs Taxi and Limousine enforcement.

Question about what northbound traffic lanes will be available between 70th and 72nd St on WEA. Concern about construction taking a lane at 70th St.

Coalition for a Livable Westside – Why not close the ramp – see the impact for a period with the ramp closed – then see if it is ok to tear down.

No park land in use will be lost to construction.

When will the plan be implemented? Parking change along WEA later in June.

Approval of EIS was done by many agencies.

Concern expressed for safety of pedestrians when a long time parking lane changes to a traffic lane.

Could a traffic lane eventually replace a parking lane on Riverside Boulevard?

What is the rush to tear down? Why not an underpass?

Concern for problems with the lights and traffic flow on WEA.

Traffic counts in EIS were wildly understated. It is dishonest not to test assumptions before actually destroying the ramp.

Request speed bump on 70th St in front of school (P.S. 199 / Center School).

Business and Consumer Issues Committee
George Zeppenfeldt-Cestero and Madge Rosenberg, Co-Chairpersons
June 13, 2007 7:00 PM

The Business and Consumer Issues Committee reviewed two liquor license applications: 103 West 77th Street, 103 W Partners was represented by Don Evans and 281 Amsterdam Ave, Nabucco, LLC, was represented by their attorney, Guiliano Iannaccone, Esq., Antonio Corsano, Managing Director and Cesarre Casalla who serves as partner/chef.

The District Needs Statement for Fiscal Year 2009 was submitted to the board office at our May 2007 committee meeting.

The BCI Committee is planning a Business Improvement District (BID) meeting of the three BIDS in the district to explore the community's interest in expanding/maintaining the current geographic boundaries. The meeting will be held at the October 2007 monthly meeting of the BCI Committee. At this meeting, the support of the BIDS will be also solicited to launch an employee health insurance coverage information/enrollment initiative. The committee believes that it is in the best interest of business owners, particular in the restaurant and construction sectors, to promote public insurance for employees of small retail businesses through no/low-cost government-sponsored health insurance coverage and private sector health insurance options which are available and which focus on "hard to reach" workers.

The Committee will also be conducting a survey of community access to meeting space within the district by cultural institutions and large employers. The issue of available meeting space for non-profits in the district and the use of minority/women business owners by these institutions will also be addressed in this survey. The co-chair will report back to the full BCI Committee on the results of the survey at their July meeting.

1. Riverside Park - West 101st Street ball field.

Margaret Bracken of the Parks Department and Jim Dowell from the Riverside Park Fund presented a proposal to renovate the Riverside Park ballfield between West 100th-101st Streets and between the Promenade and the Hudson River. In the 1990s the field was changed from grass to artificial turf, and the materials are now deteriorating. Parks presented a proposal to replace the existing artificial turf and add a more advanced rubber infill, materials which are projected to have a 10-year lifespan. The project is expected to cost approximately $350,000, with $200,000 of this amount coming as a grant from the Riverside Park Fund and the rest funded through the State capital budget (through monies secured by the work of Assemblymember Linda B. Rosenthal, and former Assemblyman, and now Borough President, Scott M. Stringer), as well as through donations from the West Side Soccer League (who are some of the greatest users of the field). Construction on the project has been scheduled for the fall of 2007 and will last about one month.

The Committee approved the application to replace the artificial turf at the ball field at West 100th-101st Streets and the Hudson River in Riverside Park with new artificial turf: 4-0-0-0.

2. Central Park - West 100th Street playground.

Gary Dearborn, Chris Nolan, Lane Addonizio and Kate Papacosma from the Central Park Conservancy described their plans for rehabilitating the West 100th Street "adventure" playground in Central Park. The project budget is approximately $1.3 million, and funded almost entirely through City Council (through Council member Gale A. Brewer's efforts) and Conservancy funds. Although the landscaping around the outside of the playground was reviewed and approved by the Committee at the May 2007 meeting, the Conservancy sought review at this meeting of their proposed redesign of the playground itself. The renovation is necessary both to rehabilitate the playground, and to bring it up to modern accessibility and consumer safety standards. Ms. Papacosma described the history of the playground and the philosophy behind "adventure" playgrounds. Originally a Robert Moses design, the West 100th Street playground was redesigned in the 1970s after a great deal of community input to include a large amount of sand surrounding two treehouses, a conical climbing pyramid, a wonder bridge, a toddler maze, a water feature and a pool.

The playground as it is currently configured is not ADA compliant and is underutilized by area residents who complain about the amount of sand, the overuse of concrete (which create many trip hazards for children) and the difficulty of supervising children through the many hiding areas (particularly in the conical tunnel). To address these issues, the Conservancy proposed eliminating the wading area, expanding the sandbox, creating an active water feature, reducing the amount of sand in the playground by 90% and introducing a new sand colored ADA carpet, dropping the grade around the cone, lowering the floor of the conical tunnel, rebuilding the slides, adding steel guardrails, adding swings to the toddler area, reusing the concrete honeycomb toddler maze pieces, rebuilding the treehouses and adding a hammock swing, among other changes. Landscaping was set to begin in mid-June, and upon approval from the Art Commission, construction on the playground itself is expected to begin in September 2007 and to take 9 months to a year.

A number of area parents (Michael Alec, Susan Calese, Grant Ross, Alex Atkin, John Matkin and Robert Barden) spoke in strong support of the proposed changes to the playground and complemented the Conservancy on their outreach efforts and thoughtful approach to the redesign. Hunter Armstrong from Landmarks West! read a statement opposing the redesign and urged the Conservancy to adhere more closely to the original design of architect Bill Giquette (Sp?).

The Committee complemented the Conservancy's extensive community outreach and efforts to work with the original architect to preserve the "adventure" playground elements and approved the final design for the reconstruction of the West 100th Street playground in Central Park: 4-0-0-0.

3. 160 West 100th Street (Columbus-Amsterdam Avenues.) Riverside Health Center.

The applicant did not appear as scheduled to present the proposal, or otherwise present or submit any information to the Committee. Accordingly, the Committee conditionally disapproved the application for the public art project for the renovation of the Riverside Health Center on West 100th Street, without prejudice to the applicant's presenting the project to the Committee at a future meeting:
4-0-0-0.

4. 344 West 72nd Street (West End Avenue-Riverside Drive.)

Tomothy J. Murphy, an architect with Lawless & Magione Architects and Engineers, LLP presented an application for a proposed addition on the roof of the Chatsworth building. The proposed addition will not be visible from West 72nd Street and only minimally visible from West 71st Street (through a space where a brownstone once stood). The proposed addition is finished with a cream colored stucco, the same color and material as the existing rear façade of the existing penthouse. The Committee approved the application for an addition to the penthouse at the Chatsworth at 344 West 72nd Street, without taking a position as to whether the addition is "small", as described by the applicant: 4-0-0-0.

5. Re: 105, 107 and 109 West 78th Street (Columbus-Amsterdam Avenues.)

The applicants are the coop owners in a set of three brownstones whose stoops were removed and which were linked together with a parlor floor level bridge linking all the doorways. In 1998, the owners painted the three brownstones light blue with white trim without obtaining prior approval from LPC (the brownstones were originally brown). The applicants noted that the block of West 78th Street between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues include a unique combination of pastel-painted brownstones, the "red and white" Guastavino row houses (which, like the applicants' buildings, have white-painted trim), and handsome row houses in their original brownstone or painted brown, which together formed a sympathetic and celebrated streetscape, and also as a whole represent their own period in the architectural and cultural history of the Historic District. Most other distinctive architectural features of the 78th Street facades of this group of three houses above the ground level are intact.

The applicants did not propose any changes to those facades, but rather proposed to legalize the blue/white paint color scheme for the three facades that has received public praise in The New York Times in the past and that was supported by testimony of several owners of the building (Gigi Barlow, Jane Genesi, Nina McCelvie, and William Witteg) as well as letters from other block residents. Although the Committee did not suggest that such paint color is generally appropriate for the street facades of row houses in the Historic District, or that it intended to create a precedent beyond this unique circumstance, the Committee believed that the existing paint color is reasonably appropriate to the Historic District in its specific context and approved the application to legalize the repainting of the facades of the buildings at 105, 107 and 109 West 78th Street in the present light blue color with white trim: 4-0-0-0.

6. Re: 161 West 78th Street (Columbus-Amsterdam Avenues.)

John S. Torberg of Torberg Architects LLP pressed a proposal to renovate the back of an existing brownstone by removing the dog leg and building out 4 stories of the brownstone for the full length of the building up to 30 feet from the lot line. The applicant proposed to restore and recreate the existing corbelling to the back of the brownstone in a manner that creates a better symmetry than the existing compromised corbelled design around the fenestration. The proposed rear-yard extension will not be visible from any public way.

The Committee noted that the proposed rear-yard extension was appropriate to the architectural features of the building and to the Historic District and approved the proposed design for the renovation of the rear-yard extension at 161 West 78th Street: 4-0-0-0.

The Committee meeting adjourned at approximately 9:45 PM.

Housing Committee

Victor Gonzalez and Charles Simon, Co-Chairpersons

June 11, 2007 7:00PM

The meeting was called to order at 7:00 P.M.

The meeting commenced with an informal round table introduction of all persons present.

First on the agenda was Ernestine Thomas who is a NYCHA Manager located at 55 West 125th Street and the current TSAP Expert. Ms. Thomas began by introducing herself and giving her work number which is 212-828-7100. She then went on to breakdown what TSAP really means.

TSAP now stands for Tenant Selection Assignment Plan which is the computerized method used to select new and or current residents to either move in or transfer. The system is based on a four (4) tier method and is broken down as follows: 1st priority is transfers, the 2nd is extremely overcrowded, the third is emergencies and the 4th is applicants. Now within these tiers there are other priorities that must be considered. Some examples are IW (Intimidated Witnesses), Domestic Violence victims, work priority and needs priority. So, although the process was broken down to its simplest form it is rather intricate.

One of the main concerns with the system is the fact that some persons have all the same priority as another but get in before the other person who has been on the waiting list for a much longer period. Ms Thomas stated that if we could give her specific examples, she could look into it and get back to us. One example was given by Mr. Gonzalez and she gave him the number to call in order to inquire. More dialogue ensued and finally Mr. Gonzalez stated that we are not trying to shut down TSAP but to try and improve it in order to make the system more fair and accurate.

This first has to go to the top echelon in NYCHA, policy has to be created and then a meeting in order to consider what changes have to be made. Obviously a very lengthy process but non the less needed. Last but not least, Randolph Houses is being renovated so the residents are being relocated to Wise Towers. This is a problem due to the priority of the move. The people on the waiting list now have to wait even longer because construction has to be completed and then relocation back to Randolph Houses will take place.

Mr. St Clair Clements, another NYCHA Resident Leader , asked Ms. Thomas about Asset Management. Her response was that she does not handle that area but if he would give her his contact information she would insure that someone will contact him. He agreed and Ms. Thomas said good night.

At this juncture Mr. J. Cooper, a guest, asked to speak about a concern regarding 211 West 101st Street, which is a shelter. His complaint was regarding chronic noise issues, domestic violence (women and children) gambling and the sale of footwear out in the open. Mr. Cooper claims that he has contacted the police and that they claim that nothing can be done. He is also concerned with the playground that is yet to be built and how this would escalate is going on now. So after a few questions by some of the Housing Committee member, Jaye Murray told J. Cooper that she would call the Commanding Officer from the 24 Pct. as a follow up and then get back to all of us with the results.

By this time it was 9:00 P.M. and the meeting had to adjourn.

II. DEP New Noise Code Rules

New noise code goes into effect July 1, 2007. DEP will distribute a Have You Heard pamphlet that describes the new limits on acceptable noise in the City.

- Construction Noise: Those engaged in construction work must develop a noise mitigation plan prior to start of their work and keep it on site, available for inspection by DEP enforcement staff. (Existing sites have 60 days from July 1, 2007 to comply.)
- Animal Noises: The noise code holds owners accountable for their animals' noises. Guidelines of unacceptable noise levels: Unreasonable and plainly audible barking from within nearby residential property after 7 a.m. and before 10 p.m. for a continuous period of 10 minutes or more, OR after 10 p.m. and before 7 a.m. for a continuous period of 5 minutes or more.
- Food Vending Vehicles: The new noise code prohibits the playing of jingles while stationary.
- Air Conditioners and Rooftop Circulation Devices: Devices may not produce noise levels in excess of 42 decibels, as measured from a point 3 feet within an open door or window. Buildings with multiple devices cannot exceed 45 decibels.
- Music from Bars and Restaurants: Commercial establishments that play music must limit the level of unreasonable or disturbing noise that escapes into the streets or nearby residences to 42 decibels OR may not exceed 7 decibels, as measured on a street or public right of way, 15 feet or more from the source, between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.
  - DEP and NYPD may enforce the music noise section of the noise code.
- Private Carters: Can work at night but must not be within 50 feet of residential premises and both engine and compacting noise together cannot exceed 85 decibels.
